

Your day with Liberty.

One login per crew. One phone. Six taps in a day. The machine does everything else.

Nothing to learn. It comes to you.

Your job shows up on the phone and the phone tells you what to tap. If something is confusing, the screen is wrong, not you. Tell Luis.

1 • LOG IN ONCE

One login per crew, not per person.

The crew has one login: Liberty Crew 1235, for example. Whoever carries the phone that day is the crew. Log in once and you are done. Nobody else has to log in. Kevin sets the password.

4-TOUCH • CREW

Liberty Cuadrilla 1235

.....

SIGN IN

2 • HERE

You arrive. The phone stamps it by itself.

When you drive onto the site, the phone stamps the time by itself. You touch nothing. The AQUÍ button is for the day the map is wrong. Luis sees you arrived on his screen, without calling you.

AQUÍ
HERE

FOTOS
PHOTOS

LISTO
DONE

LLAMAR
CALL

3 • THE ORDER

Read the order. Tap RECEIVED with your name.

The day's job is on your phone: the customer, the address, the drawing, the material list, what gets done. Spanish, with the English under it. Type your name and tap RECIBIDO • ENTENDIDO. That tells Luis you saw it and who received it.

YOUR NAME / TU NOMBRE

Name of who receives it

RECIBIDO • ENTENDIDO

4 • PHOTOS

Say it with a picture.

Tap FOTOS, take the picture, done. It lands on the customer's file with your crew's name. Short on material: one photo and two words, and Luis sees it with the clock running. Nothing gets lost in a text.

AQUÍ
HERE

FOTOS
PHOTOS

LISTO
DONE

LLAMAR
CALL

Write to Luis in your language.

Under the order there is a line to the supervisor. Write in Spanish. Luis reads it in English if he wants, and what he answers reaches you in Spanish. Your words stay exactly as you wrote them; the translation sits beside them, marked. COMING

RAMÓN • 9:40

Faltan 2 postes de 5x5 para la esquina del fondo.

translated: Short 2 5x5 posts for the back corner.

LUIS • 9:44

On the way, 40 minutes. Keep going on the front.

traducido: Van en camino, 40 minutos. Sigán con el frente.

Message the supervisor...

ENVIAR

You finished. Three photos or more, and DONE.

Take three or more photos of the finished work and tap LISTO. The screen tells you how many are in. With that, Luis signs the job off and the office sends the invoice, without calling you. Your day is over.

AQUÍ
HERE

FOTOS
PHOTOS

LISTO
DONE

LLAMAR
CALL

What you never have to do

- Write reports.
- Text the office. The office never writes to you; you talk to Luis.
- Speak English. Everything reaches you in your language.
- Open another app. It is one screen: today's job.
- Remember anything. If there is something to do, it shows up on the phone.

WHO

WHAT THEY DO

The guys

Nothing on the phone. Arrive, work, be in the photos.

WHO	WHAT THEY DO
Whoever carries the phone	Logs in once. RECEIVED with his name. Photos. Short on material. DONE. Answers Luis.
Luis · Obed · Robert · Mike	Put the crew on the job. See HERE and the photos. Answer in their language. Sign the job off on the DONE photos. Send a nugget when something has to come back.
The office	Never writes to a crew. Jonathan's material rides the order. Laura's invoice opens off Luis's sign-off.
The machine	Writes the order, sends it, translates, stamps the arrivals, counts the photos, keeps the receipt on everything. Nags nobody who did their part.

Nothing to learn. It comes to you.

This is not something to memorize. It is what is going to happen. The screen tells you what to tap. If a screen is confusing, the screen is wrong, not you. Tell Luis and Kevin fixes the screen.

What the nugget looks like on your phone today: c.html?demo=1 · the whole model: THE-CREWS.md · 16 Sep 2026